DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

In the late 70s, when it was a third-world country under military dictatorship, I was born in Korea, a country which remains at war for over 60 years now, a sad relic of the Cold War, continuing to hold back the hearts and imaginations of the people there and myself as well.

Our "zombie" focus is on its roots from Haitian colonial experience, which has been denied and forgotten. Haiti is the only country in this hemisphere to fight and win its physical freedom from colonialism, but it still suffers economically. (Jamaican Boukman was the early catalyst, hence our nod to reggae.)

Where some now seek to virtually colonize minds using money and politics, our story aims to foster digital awareness and truth, to enable free thought on all sides, disrupting through cinema and music...
